RETURN OF THE CHAMPION ZIMMERMAN.

HE SPEAKS ABOUT HIS SUCCESSES ABROAD, HIS CONDITION AND HIS PLANS. Arthur A. Zimmerman, the cycling champion of world, returned to his native shores yesterday flushed with many triumphs on the other side of the globe. Zimmerman, Henry C. Wheeler and J.

M. Irwin arrived on the steamship Augusta Victoria at 8:45 o'clock yesterday. A party of enthusiastic cyclists had perfected arrangements to hire a tug and to go down the bay

Zimmerman showed some handsome trophles he captured while abroad, but he declined to show his cash account, although his cash winnings since he left his native shores represented a small fortune, H. C. Wheeler, the pleasant-faced little rellow who was the American professional champion before Zimmerman renounced badges and diamonds for ready cash, won his share of ready prizes on the other side. to welcome home the champion, but the arrival of the steamer upset their plans, and only about 19 persons were present when the ocean traveller made fast to ber dock in Hoboken. Zimmerman and Wheeler have been fast friends for years, and they will begin training in carnest to-day for the cycling tournament which will be held at the Madison Square Garden during Thanksgiving week. They had at first intended to train at Madison Square Garden, but the Horse Show display made this arrangement impossible, and the two men will do their training near Zimmerman's home, at Freehold, N. J. Willis B. Troy, Zimmerman's manager, and a party of foreign riders who will take part in the coming tournament will arrive on the New-York, which is due here on Saturday. Besides Troy, there

Zimmerman says that he is thinking seriously of retiring from the racetrack next year, although his friends scout the idea of his quitting so long as he retains his wonderful propelling power in his remarkably developed lower limbs. The accompanying cut illustrates the muscular development re-

The professional outlook for next year is particularly good, brighter than ever before, and I believe that a professional league will be organized."

Zimmerman seemed to think that the Class B arrangement would not hold water after regular Brofessional races had been introduced, and he was of the opinion that the Class B men, at least all the best riders, would come out openly and become

The Presbytery also author-ized its trustees to sell the vacant lots at Second-ave, and Seventy-second-st, upon which the Knox Church had expected to erect a church building. The congregation has met for a number of years n the building intended for a chapel on a lot adjoining those now ordered to be sold. Dr. Alexander and S. B. Brownell were added to the committee. James Yearance and Robert Beggs, a committee appointed to audit the accounts of the trustees, said in their report:
